

Lorenzo A. Watson serves as the Director of Communications and Marketing for the Christian Community Development Association, headquartered in Chicago, IL. He has enjoyed two decades with a career in Information Technology. Lorenzo graduated from NC State University with a BS in Computer Engineering. He is honored to say that he received his theological training from the small (sometimes storefront) holiness churches across North Carolina, and that he was conferred a Master of Divinity degree from Shaw University Divinity School. He is currently pursuing a PhD in Higher Education at NC State University. His research interests include Black men's spiritual and leadership development, and academic efficacy. Lorenzo enjoys mentoring, teaching, and reading. He resides in Kerrville, Texas with his wife, Natarsha P. Sanders.